Sensitivity Retention

Sensitivity labels are used to classify email messages, documents, sites, and more. When a label is applied (automatically or by the user), the content or site is protected based on the settings you choose. For example, you can create labels that encrypt files, add content marking, and control user access to specific sites. Learn more about sensitivity labels

This screenshot shows the Microsoft Office 365 Security & Compliance interface for managing sensitivity labels. A modal window titled 'Add users or groups' is open, prompting the user to choose which users or groups to add from a list. The search bar contains 'Project'. The list shows one entry: 'Project Falcon' with the email address 'Falcon@M365x293093.onmicrosoft.com'. The main interface on the left lists various sensitivity labels like 'Personal', 'General', 'Internal', and 'Project Confidential'. The 'Project Confidential' label is currently selected, showing its configuration options: Name & description, Encryption, Content marking, Endpoint data loss prevention, Auto labeling, and Review your settings. The 'Content marking' section is expanded, showing a sub-section for 'Added (0)' and 'Users or groups (1)'. The 'Users or groups (1)' section lists the selected user 'Project Falcon'. At the bottom of the modal are 'Add' and 'Cancel' buttons, and at the bottom right are 'Need help?' and 'Feedback' links.

Use actions to protect content when the conditions are met.

Restrict access or encrypt the content

Block people from sharing and restrict access to shared content
By default, users are blocked from sending email and Teams chats and channel messages that contain the type of content you're protecting. But you can choose who has access to shared SharePoint and OneDrive files. You can also decide if you want to let people override the policy's restrictions.

Block these people from accessing SharePoint, OneDrive, and Teams content

Everyone. Only the content owner, the last modifier, and the site admin will continue to have access

Only people outside your organization. People inside your organization will continue to have access.

Encrypt email messages (applies only to content in Exchange)

PROJECT SCOPE

Develop garment design and content for our seasonal launch that reaches customers effectively in both physical and virtual storefronts.

Scope will include one core seasonal design with minor modifications only for the three shoulder seasons versions. Final products must include the following considerations:

Implement aspects of our branding for customer recognition and continuity.

Convey the unique benefits of our latest materials.

Implement success
